The Great Acceleration: Themes for a Post-Coronavirus World

The coronavirus crisis is expected to accelerate themes, trends, and the adoption of technologies that had already been in place prior to the pandemic. In this upcoming webinar, we examine some of these key trends including the localization of supply chains, the digitization of the economy, the advancement of next-gen tech infrastructure and greater government debt. We will discuss the investment implications of these various themes across asset classes and sectors. Commentary will be followed by a live Q&A.
